Other stories

Clara Asscher-Pinkhof was a famous Dutch writer of children's stories. She was Jewish and wrote a series of short stories about her experiences in Amsterdam and Bergen-Belsen. These stories were published as Star Children in 1946.

Judith Kerr When Hitler Stole Pink Rabbit, this is a semi-autobiographical account of fleeing Nazi Germany written by the author of the Mog stories and The Tiger Who Came to Tea.

Netherlands during the war

There are several very good books in English about the Netherlands during World War Two I have found these two most useful

Bob Moore (1997) Victims and Survivors London Arnold

Dick van Galen Last and Rolf Wolfswinkel (1996) Anne Frank and After Amsterdam University Press

Box C Other Resources

Anne Frank Trust. <http://www.annefrank.org.uk/> they do a lot of work on Human Rights and education against prejudice. They have an excellent Anne Frank touring display and a strong regional network.

Centre for Holocaust Education. <http://www.holocausteducation.org.uk/> a research led team based at University College London. The website includes interesting research and some open access material. The 2016 report What do students know and understand about the Holocaust is excellent at revealing the ideas children have about the Holocaust.

Ilona Aronovsky "The life stories of refugees: Judith Kerr" a very useful outline on how to use Kerr's book. It is in Primary History Issue 75 Spring 2017

The National Holocaust Centre offers a range of experiences specifically designed for KS2 students. <https://www.nationalholocaustcentre.net/>
